Bill Puts City In El Camino College District

With the signing of a bill by Governor Earl Warren the confusion was removed as to the question of whether or not Torrance is in the El Camino College District.

In brief, AB 548 provides that the boundaries of El Camino College shall be co-extensive with the boundaries of the High School District now included in the Junior College District.

The measure, authored by Assemblyman Glenn M. Anderson, was introduced at the request of Forrest G. Murdock, president of El Camino college.

Louis H. Deining, acting postmaster of Torrance, stated the bill has no connection or bearing on the proper mailing address of the school. The post office department recently established a sub-station at the local college.

A statement by postal officials in Washington said that the new mailing address of the college is "El Camino College, California."
